

ANOTHER ASSULT BY HINDENBURG EXPECTED

(By United Press)

Resumption of the Picardy drive by Hindenburg through an assault between the Somme and the Scarpe River appears imminent.

A United Press dispatch from the French front says:

"There are numerous indications that the Germans are preparing for a fresh drive between Amiens and Arras." This, the correspondent declared, is in line with the enemy's strategy of maintaining their temporarily abandoned drive in a condition permitting immediate resumption of the offense."

The front between the Somme and the Scarpe has been comparatively the quietest of any sector in the few big fighting fronts on the western front offensive for several weeks. The Flanders battle field with the exception of brief lulls, has been the scene of almost continuous fighting since the drive started there April 9th.

On the Picardy front below the Somme, the French have made several successful local attacks east of Amiens and the sector from Montdidier eastward and have made numerous raids and artillery engagements.

Haig, in his official report, today described a strong enemy attack in Mesnil which is located on the Amiens-Arras front, 11 miles north of the Somme. There are also indications that Haig expects an effort by Hindenburg to consolidate the two big battle fronts by an attack between the Scarpe and the LaBasse Canal.

HAIG'S REPORT

London, April 22.—"We improved our positions during the night in the fighting ten miles east of Amiens and in the Albert and Robecq sectors," Field Marshall Haig reported today. "South and north of Lens, midway between Picardy and Flanders battle front, we conducted a number of successful raids, capturing prisoners and machine guns. In different sectors there was considerable reciprocal artillery fighting, the enemy shelling heavily in the Somme and Lens sectors. A strong local attack was made by the enemy last night in the vicinity of Mesnil, four miles north of Albert, accompanied by heavy shelling. After sharp fighting, during the course of which the enemy captured advance posts, the attack was completely repulsed."

WILSON OPPOSES COURTMARTIAL OF CIVIL CRIME

Washington, April 22.—President Wilson today expressed strong opposition to Senator Chamberlain's bill providing for court martial of those arrested for treasonable utterances and acts. In a letter the President declared that such legislation would be unconstitutional and would put the United States "on a level" with the people whom we are fighting.

PATRIOTISM MUST SELL BONDS

Washington, April 22.—Patriotism must be the stimulant for greater bond sales in the Third Liberty Loan from now on until the close of the campaign. With the campaign entering its third week, treasury officials today warned that no longer will competition serve to spur on local committee men. That is now worn away. If the minimum quota is obtained the next two weeks must be used in systematically canvassing every corner of the nation for subscribers, officials asserted.

CLEARFIELD MAN IS MENTIONED IN SUICIDE'S NOTE

Quite a sensation was caused here this morning when the Pittsburgh papers carried a story of the suicide of Jean K. Baird, Dean of the Women's department of Beaver college and widely known contributor to magazines and newspapers, who took a deadly poison at the dormitory of the college and was found dead after several hours when the door of her room was forced open by the president of the college and a physician. In a letter to Miss Parker, matron of the college, Miss Baird asked that the physician be asked to say that she died of heart disease "for the good of the school and her family." In another to her sister she said: "Don't feel sorry. I'm glad to go. This will end all the loneliness and struggle of twenty years." In still another and the one which caused the sensation she said: "You have taken everything from me but my honor. I thank God I still have that. Your arms will never be around her at night, but my face will step between, and your lips will never touch hers, but my dead lips will be there first. Every day of your married life will be accursed. Before the year ends you will do just as I do now." The latter letter was addressed to E. W. Hess of Clearfield who is one of the best known professional men of this section of the state.

In an interview with a representative of the Pittsburgh News Bureau this morning Mr. Hess stated that he had known Miss Baird for a period of about twenty-five years but that their relationship had never been more than one of friendship. He exhibited a number of letters recently received from Miss Baird and in none of these was there the slightest indication of a love affair as is intimated in the Pittsburgh papers. Mr. Hess states that he first received letters from Miss Baird about a year ago and replied to only two or three of them. Since that time he declares he has paid no attention to the letters she has written him and a box containing a gift of a pair of socks from the deceased woman remains unopened on his desk. A letter came along in the mail before the gift. Mr. Hess declares that he cannot account for his name being used by the suicide and feels no responsibility for the regrettable affair.

GREATEST GERMAN AVIATOR MEETS WITH DEATH

By Wm. Phillip Simms

April 22.—Baron von Richthofen, famous German aviator, was killed Sunday in the Somme valley, it was announced today. At his funeral this afternoon he was given the same honors as a British flight officer. Richthofen was the greatest of the German fighter commanders. His squadron, known among the British airmen as "Richthofen's Circus," has been mentioned in numerous German communiques and has figured in many works of fiction on the war. Richthofen was last mentioned in the German war office statement of April 8th, when it was announced that he had achieved his 77th and 78th aerial victories.

7,500,000 BRITISH IN FIGHTING SERVICE

Washington, April 19.—Official figures received here yesterday show that the British Empire, on April 1, had 7,500,000 men in army and navy service. England furnished 4,530,000 or 60.4 per cent of this total. The Dominions and Colonies furnished 12 per cent (900,000) and Scotland 620,000 one for each 7 1/2 of her population.

England, in proportion to population, has one in 7.5 in service; Wales, one in 10.2; Ireland, one in 26.3 and the Dominions one in 15. Africa, India and other dependencies have furnished 1,000,000 laborers and specialists.

Troops from England and Wales, constituting 70 per cent of the men on the fighting line, bore 76 per cent of the casualties. Scotland, with 8 per cent of the fighters, bore 10 per cent. The Dominions and Colonies, with 16 per cent bore 8 per cent of the casualties.

Irish troops, representing 6 per cent of the fighting forces, suffered 6 per cent of the casualties.

Lady Henderson, wife of General Sir David Henderson, to whom Britain owes her Flying Corps, has been mentioned for her services at the Royal Flying Corps hospital.

GERMAN LOSS HAS BEEN OVER FIVE MILLION MEN

Paris, April 22.—Karl Bleis-tre, a German military writer in the Neu Europa, declares the German losses on the western front between August 1914 and August 1917 totalled 2,604,961, in killed and prisoners. On the eastern front he said the total of killed and prisoners were 1,484,550.

German writers estimate the German losses between August 1917 and January 31, 1918, at 367,450 killed, taken prisoners on both fronts.

German writers estimate the grand total of German killed and prisoners, adding those dying of illness and wounds and the casualties in colonial and naval fighting, at 5,000,000.

The New York City Consumers' League estimates that $11.70 a week is the least upon which a woman can live decently and healthfully in New York.

LABOR MANAGER ISSUES A CALL FOR FARMERS

Farmers Of County Offering As High As $60 And Board For Experienced Men

BE A SOLDIER ON THE FARM

There is urgent need of skilled men to work on Clearfield county farms NOW.

I have calls from a half dozen different farmers this week for good reliable men, teamsters and working Farm Managers at from $40.00 to $60 per month straight time, with board and lodging.

I have a few prospects for filling these positions but not enough. Farmers with tenant houses have best chances of getting good, steady men with families for farm labor.

I am preparing a list of volunteer representatives to whom anyone looking for farm work may apply. Also a list of representatives of farmers to report their needs to this office. However, persons with definite knowledge should consider it their patriotic duty to report sources of farm labor or employment to me promptly at the Farm Bureau Office, Clearfield, Pa. Call 76-W Bell, or 52 H. & C.

The most immediate pressing need now is for steady men for the season. However, some boys can be used. Also, older men who are steady and reliable.

Later there will be need of boys to work in groups and singly, and men from offices, etc., who could give some time in harvest as emergency help to farmers.

There are some other sources of farm labor as follows:
Persons within draft age who have been exempted from military service on agricultural grounds must now continually engaged in agricultural work or they will be required to report for military service immediately.

If they are not now actively engaged in farming they should immediately report to me as demand for help from farmers is so insistent that all available supply must be utilized. A ruling of the War Department provides that those who are now being called for military service when their order number is reached will be permitted to remain at farm work until the crops are harvested, provided that they actively, actually and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or harvesting of crops.

Also, there is provision for granting furloughs to enlisted men in accordance with the law of March 16, 1918 and regulations of the War Department.

Information in regard to this matter and blank application forms for furloughs can be secured at this office or from the Executive Secretaries of the local Exemption Boards at Clearfield, Houtzdale and DaBois.

T. L. WALL,
Farm Labor Manager.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT WILL FEED U. S.

Washington, April 22.—Millions of bushels of Australian wheat will soon be pouring into Pacific ports to relieve all American grain to Europe. Negotiations with Japan and Scandinavian countries for shipping, now practically completed, will permit landing of 401,500,000 bushels of Australian wheat a month on the California coast. It was learned authoritatively today that the will enable Food Administrator Hoover to ship 600,000 bushels of wheat immediately to Belgium to relieve starvation conditions there. The program calls for arrival at Pacific ports of 1,600,000 bushels of wheat a month starting May 1st. Ten million bushels must come in by September under the schedule mapped out. Because of the critical world food situation plans are practically completed for the use of 70,000 tons of Japanese shipping to move Argentine and Australian wheat to the United States. Next to troop movements, food is getting the right of way.

PROCLAMATION

By the President of the United States of America:

A proclamation.
An enemy who has grossly abused the power of organized government, and who seeks to dominate the world by the might of the sword, challenges the rights of America and the liberty and life of all the free nations of the earth. Our brave sons are facing the fire of battle in defense of the honor and rights of America and the liberty of nations. To sustain them and to assist our gallant associates in the war, a generous and patriotic people have been called upon to subscribe to the Third Liberty Loan.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Friday the twenty-sixth day of April, one thousand, nine hundred and eighteen, as Liberty Day. On the afternoon of that day I request the people of the United States to assemble in their respective communities and liberally buy, pledge anew their financial support to sustain the Nation's cause.

Patriotic demonstrations should be held in every city, town and hamlet throughout the land under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty Loan committee organized by the Federal Reserve Bank. Let the Nation's response to the Third Liberty Loan express in unmistakable terms the determination of America to fight for peace, the permanent peace of justice.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty Day celebrations all employees of the Federal government throughout the country, whose services can be spared may be excused at 12 o'clock noon, Friday, the 26th of April.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.
Done in the District of Columbia, this 18th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand and nine hundred and eighteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-second.

By the President:
WOODROW WILSON
ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

Any maker may claim for his product all the qualities there are. That is his privilege. He may even think his claims are justified.

You read the advertisements, so you know that makers, as a rule, are not over modest in that regard.

If you believe them all, they all make super-cars.

In your experience, that theory doesn't hold.

Maxwell is different.

We never claim anything we cannot prove.

As a matter of fact we never have claimed anything for this Maxwell that has not already been proved in public test and under official observation.

Maxwell claims are not therefore claims in the ordinary sense—they are statements of fact—proven facts.

They are, in every case, matters of official record attested under oath.

For example: The famous 22,000-mile Non-Stop run was made with the Maxwell every minute under observation of the A. A. A. officials.

That still remains a world's record—the world's record of reliability.

That particular test proved about all that anyone could ask or desire of a motor car.

Among other things it still stands the world's long distance speed record.

Just consider—44 days and nights without a stop, at an average speed of 25 miles per hour!

And that, not by a $2,000 car, but by a stock model Maxwell listing at $825.

You will recall perhaps that a famous high powered, high priced six in a transcontinental trip made 28 miles average over a period of five days and eleven hours.

Now compare those two feats—one of less than six days, the other of 44 days. You know automobiles—which was the greater test?

Is there any comparison on grounds either of speed or endurance?

Proves you don't need to pay more than $825 to obtain all the qualities you can desire in a motor car—if you select a Maxwell.

For that Maxwell Non-Stop run was made, not on a track but over rough country roads and through city traffic—average of all kinds of going.

And—listen to this.

So certain were we of the condition of the Maxwell at the end of that great feat, we announced that at the stroke of eleven on a certain morning, the car would stop in front of the City Hall, Los Angeles, for the Mayor to break the seal.

Five seconds after he had pulled the switch plug and stopped the motor after the 44 days and nights continuous running, she started again and off on a thousand mile jaunt to visit various Maxwell dealers.

How is that for precision—certainty of action? That incident brought a storm of applause from the assembled thousands.

Hill climbing?—this Maxwell holds practically every record worth mentioning—especially in the West where the real hills are.

The Mount Wilson record—nine and one-half miles, 6,000 feet elevation!—was taken by a stock Maxwell.

Two months ago a 12-cylinder car beat that record by two minutes.

Then—three days later—a stock Maxwell went out and beat that 12-cylinder record by thirty seconds! Pretty close going for such a distance and such a climb—wasn't it?

So Maxwell still holds the Mount Wilson honors.

Ready to defend it against all comers too, at any time—a stock Maxwell against any stock or special chassis.

Economy—also a matter of official record.

Others may claim—Maxwell proves.

Thousands of Maxwell owners throughout the United States on the same day averaged 29.4 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Not dealers or factory experts, mind you, but owners—thousands of them—driving their own Maxwells.

Nor were they new Maxwells—the contest was made by 1915, 16, and 17 models, many of which had seen tens of thousands miles of service—three years' use.

Nor could they choose their own road or weather conditions—all kinds were encountered in the various sections of the country.

Good roads and bad—level country and mountainous regions—heat and cold—sunshine and rain—asphalt and mud.

And the average was 29.4 miles per gallon!

There's economy for you. And under actual, average driving conditions—not laboratory test.

But that isn't all.

The greatest achievement of this Maxwell was in its showing of speed and reliability and economy all in the same run.

In that 44 days-and-nights Non-Stop run, though no thought was given to either speed or economy, it still remains a fact of official record that the Maxwell averaged 22 miles per gallon and 25 miles per hour.

Now you know that speed costs—and that economy tests are usually made at slow-speed—closed-throttle, thin-mixture conditions.

You know too that you can obtain economy of fuel by building and adjusting for that one condition.

Speed you can get by building for speed. Any engineer can do that.

But to obtain that combination of speed and economy with the wonderful reliability shown in that 44-days Non-Stop run—the car must be a Maxwell.

Emory Daub left yesterday for Huntingdon county where he will visit relatives and friends for a few days.

An appropriate sermon was preached by pastor Stram H. Conley to a fair representation of the lodges. Beautiful were the two flags exhibited at this service, the silk flag of the Presbyterian church and the service flag of Bethesda Lodge. Rev. Joseph H. Cooke assisted in the service.

There was a wreck on the B. & P. road near Bridgeport Saturday evening. About 14 loaded coal cars were derailed. Fortunately no one was hurt. The wreck crew worked all night and Sunday.

Miss Ruth Lord, of Hastings is visiting her grandmother, M. D. C. Henchberger.

Miss Nellie Farley who has been confined to the house, suffering from diphtheria, is getting along nicely.

IRREPRESSIBLE AMERICAN YOUTH

Fighting, like flying, seems especially adapted to youth. A boy of seventeen, after his first battle and killing, could talk only of "souvenirs" collected, a belt labeled "Gott mit Uns," new trench daggers, etc. "Believe me, I am anxious for the next night," said he, anxious undoubtedly for more souvenirs. Happy, unconscious youth.

Such remarks by young American soldiers may not come up to your ideal of lofty, patriotic purpose but, undoubtedly authentic, they will interest German statesmen wondering how big a fine they can collect from the United States "after victory."

One young soldier told how he was at first connected with a machine gun, but found that he could do better with hand grenades. "After the barrage I seen two Germans cutting the wire with long snappers. I spun a couple of grenades at 'em, and blew 'em both to hell. Me for hand grenades."

The serious religious tone is lacking here, but this sort of personality multiplied by five millions and well armed will probably cut down the German estimate of a United States indemnity.—Arthur Brisbane

MINER KILLED AT HOUTZDALE

Pat Mulloy, a well known resident of Parsonville, near Houtzdale, was killed by a fall of rocks in the old Mo-hannon mine of the Cartwright Coal company, located near Houtzdale.

Mr. Mulloy was engaged in the removal of the cap or top of a coal and the treacherous roof suddenly slide engulfed him. His fellow miners quickly dug him from the debris but his injuries were such that he lived less than ten minutes from the time he was removed from the mine. He was about 55 years of age and leaves a widow and family of adult children.

GENERAL PUBLIC OF ARGENTINE FAVORS ALLIES

President Of Republic In His Attitude Does Not Represent
Feelings Of The People

FINANCIAL TIES BINDING

(By United Press)

Buenos Aires, Feb. 17.—There is a marked divergence between Argentine public opinion and the opinion
held by the government, as characterized by the President of the Republic,
on the matter of the European war.
That the government is distinct from Congress, is shown by the fact that the latter has already made its belief manifest by an overwhelming majority. Moreover, the general sympathy of the Argentine people for the Allied cause is well known; public meetings,
the press, the youth of the Republic,
all have made plain both in town and country that this Republic's ideals are one with those of the allies, and that the pretoria organizations and the absolutism which the Central Empires
seek to extend throughout the world
runs counter to all free and democratic institutions, and especially are opposed to the aspirations of the Republics of the new world.

Argentina, like many other countries, was close linked with Germany
on the economic side, whilst in military matters and above all in questions of armament she was practically at her beck and call. Routine methods, carelessness, out-of-date systems, absorbing internal problems, neglect of foreign markets, gradually eliminated the old clients in England, France, Belgium, Italy, and even Spain, their place being taken by cheap German goods sold on long
terms of payment, flashy, fraudulent,
and a mere copy of the better stuffs
sold by other nations. Indeed, in certain lines, such as drugs, dye stuffs,
and toys, Germany practically held
the field.

In military matters, too, Molke
was the high priest and Bismark the brain of this governing and all-conquering force, and Argentina was a willing customer of the Teuton store,
past master as it was in eliminating
all rival influences and competition
when contracts for armaments were under consideration and always using
the most efficacious method for gaining its ends, even when those methods were of an immoral nature.

Came the world war and today in this world crisis the policy of the chancellery is either an enigma or a string of incoherencies. The reply to the Teutonic notifications of a submarine war without restrictions was feeble and unfortunate. Then in replying to the vibrant and finely worded communication of the United States advising a state of war, the Argentine government admitted that the American attitude "was right,"
an admission that ought to have led to the rupture of relations with a nation that had forced this "right" and defensive war on the United States.
Next came the vacillation over official acknowledgment of the American seamen; then there was the visit of the Glasgow and the acting Minister

A patriotic and Liberty Loan meeting at the Pee Wee's Nest Saturday afternoon and addressed by Rev. E. C.
Reeve, W. I. Swoope, and W. A. Hag-

the Caldwell, Pyramma and other mines in the vicinity. The patriotic utterances of the speakers were most enthusiastically received and following the speechmaking the Bond solicitors did a rushing business.

When the last man had been rounded up it was found that the Caldwell
mine employees subscribed for over $4000 worth of bonds and the men promised the solicitors that it would be in the 100 per cent. list before the drive was over.

We did not get a report from the other mines.

Store Editorials

Ours Is A "One Price" Store

"Can't you sell this for less money?" asked
a new customer about to make a purchase.

We need not tell you what our answer
was; it was merely a matter of explaining
that we did not do business that way—that no customer could obtain a less price than any other.

And this is only right. When a woman goes into a store, she should not feel that she must be on her guard and that she never can tell when she is really getting a good or poor value.

Isn't it best when you can step into a store
knowing that EVERY value is good—and that no item has been overmarked?

Let us say now that the new customer who asked the above question was thoroughly convinced of the folly of purchasing at a "no-price" or a "two-price" store and told us our little talk had certainly set her thinking.

TIN HAT SOUNDS JUST LIKE
CASH REGISTER

By Fred S. Ferguson

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The American Army In Lorraine, March 21.—"That was one sale
the Boche rang up without getting
the money" said a boy from Dayton
as he took off his tin hat and pointed to a shiny spot on the crown. He went over the top with the men of the Ohio regiment when they made their raid on March 9. While coming back the German artillery opened up with a barrage. There was a burst of shrapnel near the Dayton boy. His life was saved by his tin hat. A piece of the shell struck the hat and bounced off.

"You ought to have heard it ring,"
the Dayton soldier went on. "It sounded like all the cash registers in
the shops at home were being rung
up. But the Boche missed his sale."

ANOTHER ASSULT BY HINDENBURG EXPECTED

(By United Press)

Resumption of the Picardy drive by Hindenburg through an assault between the Somme and the Scarpe River appears imminent.

A United Press dispatch from the French front says:

"There are numerous indications that the Germans are preparing for a fresh drive between Amiens and Arras." This, the correspondent declared, is in line with the enemy's strategy of maintaining their temporarily abandoned drive in a condition permitting immediate resumption of the offense."

The front between the Somme and the Scarpe has been comparatively the quietest of any sector in the few big fighting fronts on the western front offensive for several weeks. The Flanders battle field with the exception of brief lulls, has been the scene of almost continuous fighting since the drive started there April 9th.

On the Picardy front below the Somme, the French have made several successful local attacks east of Amiens and the sector from Montdidier eastward and have made numerous raids and artillery engagements.

Haig, in his official report, today described a strong enemy attack in Mesnil which is located on the Amiens-Arras front, 11 miles north of the Somme. There are also indications that Haig expects an effort by Hindenburg to consolidate the two big battle fronts by an attack between the Scarpe and the LaBasse Canal.

HAIG'S REPORT

London, April 22.—"We improved our positions during the night in the fighting ten miles east of Amiens and in the Albert and Robecq sectors," Field Marshall Haig reported today. "South and north of Lens, midway between Picardy and Flanders battle front, we conducted a number of successful raids, capturing prisoners and machine guns. In different sectors there was considerable reciprocal artillery fighting, the enemy shelling heavily in the Somme and Lens sectors. A strong local attack was made by the enemy last night in the vicinity of Mesnil, four miles north of Albert, accompanied by heavy shelling. After sharp fighting, during the course of which the enemy captured advance posts, the attack was completely repulsed."

WILSON OPPOSES COURTMARTIAL OF CIVIL CRIME

Washington, April 22.—President Wilson today expressed strong opposition to Senator Chamberlain's bill providing for court martial of those arrested for treasonable utterances and acts. In a letter the President declared that such legislation would be unconstitutional and would put the United States "on a level" with the people whom we are fighting.

PATRIOTISM MUST SELL BONDS

Washington, April 22.—Patriotism must be the stimulant for greater bond sales in the Third Liberty Loan from now on until the close of the campaign. With the campaign entering its third week, treasury officials today warned that no longer will competition serve to spur on local committee men. That is now worn away. If the minimum quota is obtained the next two weeks must be used in systematically canvassing every corner of the nation for subscribers, officials asserted.

CLEARFIELD MAN IS MENTIONED IN SUICIDE'S NOTE

Quite a sensation was caused here this morning when the Pittsburgh papers carried a story of the suicide of Jean K. Baird, Dean of the Women's department of Beaver college and widely known contributor to magazines and newspapers, who took a deadly poison at the dormitory of the college and was found dead after several hours when the door of her room was forced open by the president of the college and a physician. In a letter to Miss Parker, matron of the college, Miss Baird asked that the physician be asked to say that she died of heart disease "for the good of the school and her family." In another to her sister she said: "Don't feel sorry. I'm glad to go. This will end all the loneliness and struggle of twenty years." In still another and the one which caused the sensation she said: "You have taken everything from me but my honor. I thank God I still have that. Your arms will never be around her at night, but my face will step between, and your lips will never touch hers, but my dead lips will be there first. Every day of your married life will be accursed. Before the year ends you will do just as I do now." The latter letter was addressed to E. W. Hess of Clearfield who is one of the best known professional men of this section of the state.

In an interview with a representative of the Pittsburgh News Bureau this morning Mr. Hess stated that he had known Miss Baird for a period of about twenty-five years but that their relationship had never been more than one of friendship. He exhibited a number of letters recently received from Miss Baird and in none of these was there the slightest indication of a love affair as is intimated in the Pittsburgh papers. Mr. Hess states that he first received letters from Miss Baird about a year ago and replied to only two or three of them. Since that time he declares he has paid no attention to the letters she has written him and a box containing a gift of a pair of socks from the deceased woman remains unopened on his desk. A letter came along in the mail before the gift. Mr. Hess declares that he cannot account for his name being used by the suicide and feels no responsibility for the regrettable affair.

GREATEST GERMAN AVIATOR MEETS WITH DEATH

By Wm. Phillip Simms

April 22.—Baron von Richthofen, famous German aviator, was killed Sunday in the Somme valley, it was announced today. At his funeral this afternoon he was given the same honors as a British flight officer. Richthofen was the greatest of the German fighter commanders. His squadron, known among the British airmen as "Richthofen's Circus," has been mentioned in numerous German communiques and has figured in many works of fiction on the war. Richthofen was last mentioned in the German war office statement of April 8th, when it was announced that he had achieved his 77th and 78th aerial victories.

7,500,000 BRITISH IN FIGHTING SERVICE

Washington, April 19.—Official figures received here yesterday show that the British Empire, on April 1, had 7,500,000 men in army and navy service. England furnished 4,530,000 or 60.4 per cent of this total. The Dominions and Colonies furnished 12 per cent (900,000) and Scotland 620,000 one for each 7 1/2 of her population.

England, in proportion to population, has one in 7.5 in service; Wales, one in 10.2; Ireland, one in 26.3 and the Dominions one in 15. Africa, India and other dependencies have furnished 1,000,000 laborers and specialists.

Troops from England and Wales, constituting 70 per cent of the men on the fighting line, bore 76 per cent of the casualties. Scotland, with 8 per cent of the fighters, bore 10 per cent. The Dominions and Colonies, with 16 per cent bore 5 per cent of the casualties.

Irish troops, representing 6 per cent of the fighting forces, suffered 6 per cent of the casualties.

GERMAN LOSS HAS BEEN OVER FIVE MILLION MEN

Paris, April 22.—Karl Bleis-tre, a German military writer in the Neu Europa, declares the German losses on the western front between August 1914 and August 1917 totalled 2,604,961, in killed and prisoners. On the eastern front he said the total of killed and prisoners were 1,484,550.

German writers estimate the German losses between August 1917 and January 31, 1918, at 367,450 killed, taken prisoners on both fronts.

German writers estimate the grand total of German killed and prisoners, adding those dying of illness and wounds and the casualties in colonial and naval fighting, at 5,000,000.

LABOR MANAGER ISSUES A CALL FOR FARMERS

Farmers Of County Offering As
High As $60 And Board For
Experienced Men

BE A SOLDIER ON THE FARM

There is urgent need of skilled men to work on Clearfield county farms NOW.

I have calls from a half dozen different farmers this week for good reliable men, teamsters and working Farm Managers, at from $40.00 to $60 per month straight time, with board and lodging.

I have a few prospects for filling these positions but not enough. Farmers with tenant houses have best chances of getting good, steady men with families for farm labor.

I am preparing a list of volunteer representatives to whom anyone looking for farm work may apply. Also a list of representatives of farmers to report their needs to this office. However, persons with definite knowledge should consider it their patriotic duty to report sources of farm labor, or employment to me promptly at the Farm Bureau Office, Clearfield, Pa. Call 76-W Bell, or 52 H. & C.

The most immediate pressing need now is for steady men for the season. However, some boys can be used. Also, older men who are steady and reliable.

Later there will be need of boys to work in groups and singly, and men from offices, etc., who could give some time in harvest as emergency help to farmers.

There are some other sources of farm labor as follows:
Persons within draft age who have been exempted from military service on agricultural grounds must now continually engaged in agricultural work or they will be required to report for military service immediately.

If they are not now actively engaged in farming they should immediately report to me as demand for help from farmers is so insistent that all available supply must be utilized. A ruling of the War Department provides that those who are now being called for military service when their order number is reached will be permitted to remain at farm work until the crops are harvested, provided that they actively, actually and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or harvesting of crops.

Also, there is provision for granting furloughs to enlisted men in accordance with the law of March 16, 1918 and regulations of the War Department.

Information in regard to this matter and blank application forms for furloughs can be secured at this office or from the Executive Secretaries of the local Exemption Boards at Clearfield, Houtzdale and DaBois.

T. L. WALL,
Farm Labor Manager.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT WILL FEED U. S.

Washington, April 22.—Millions of bushels of Australian wheat will soon be pouring into Pacific ports to relieve all American grain to Europe. Negotiations with Japan and Scandinavian countries for shipping, now practically completed, will permit landing of 401,500,000 bushels of Australian wheat a month on the California coast, it was learned authoritatively today. The will enable Food Administrator Hoover to ship 600,000 bushels of wheat immediately to Belgium to relieve starvation conditions there. The program calls for arrival at Pacific ports of 1,600,000 bushels of wheat a month starting May 1st. Ten million bushels must come in by September under the schedule mapped out. Because of the critical world food situation plans are practically completed for the use of 70,000 tons of Japanese shipping to move Argentine and Australian wheat to the United States. Next to troop movements, food is getting the right of way.

PROCLAMATION

By the President of the United States of America:

A proclamation.
An enemy who has grossly abused the power of organized government, and who seeks to dominate the world by the might of the sword, challenges the rights of America and the liberty and life of all the free nations of the earth. Our brave sons are facing the fire of battle in defense of the honor and rights of America and the liberty of nations. To sustain them and to assist our gallant associates in the war, a generous and patriotic people have been called upon to subscribe to the Third Liberty Loan.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Friday the twenty-sixth day of April, one thousand, nine hundred and eighteen, as Liberty Day. On the afternoon of that day I request the people of the United States to assemble in their respective communities and liberally buy, pledge anew their financial support to sustain the Nation's cause.

Patriotic demonstrations should be held in every city, town and hamlet throughout the land under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty Loan committee organized by the Federal Reserve bank. Let the Nation's response to the Third Liberty Loan express in unmistakable terms the determination of America to fight for peace, the permanent peace of justice.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty Day celebrations all employees of the Federal government throughout the country, whose services can be spared may be excused at 12 o'clock noon, Friday, the 26th of April.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.
Done in the District of Columbia, this 18th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand and nine hundred and eighteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-second.

By the President:
WOODROW WILSON
ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 22, 1918

If you have saved a slice a day eat cornbread and save a loaf.

Our story today on the losses of the Germany army since the beginning of the war is the first one we have seen that rings true. It is not based on mere guesswork but apparently comes through a source that is reliable and from one who is in position to know whereof he speaks.

There is a hatfull of good common sense in the decision to have our Liberty Day celebration in the evening instead of a daylight carnival and there is all the reason in the world too for turning over the parade to the ladies this time. For the last year the men have not lost an opportunity to get out and pound brick and we have an idea that many of them will feel not a little alighted this time but the committee has set out a hard and fast rule and aside from the musicians and probably some marshalls these shall be none but the fair sex in line. Now the ladies do not have to go out in public parade to show their patriotism. We have a notion that the individual woman is doing a great deal more to win the war than the average man but we are willing and anxious that the women do parade just to show some of the men that they have the right spirit and are willing to do whatever they are called upon to do—something the men have not entirely done.

WE'RE PROUD OF THE KID

This morning one of our carrier boys approached us with the request that his pay be withheld each week and that at the end of the month it be paid over on a Liberty Bond subscription. This little fellow who has an Italian name and isn't much bigger than a minute, is, in our opinion, a darn sight more patriotic than some big stiff who cries about being asked to buy a War Saving Stamp. At the end of about eight months this little fellow will own a Liberty Bond. Between now and then he may grow a little hungry for a stick of candy or an ice cream cone but we can tell by the smile on his face that he is going to stick it out. No sir, he is no slacker.

17,416,303 U. S. CATHOLICS

It is shown in the Official Catholic Directory for 1918, copyrighted and published by P. J. Kenedy & Sons of New York City, that there are 17,416,303 Catholics in the forty-eight states of the Union and 8,500,000 more in our foreign possessions.

Twelve states have a Catholic population of more than 500,000 apiece. They are New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Louisiana, Wisconsin, California, Missouri and Connecticut. New York leads with 3,088,404 and Pennsylvania stands next with 1,865,000. The net increase for the year in the United States was 333,424.

The number of priests in the United States is 20,477, of whom 14,922 are secular and 5,555 of religious orders. The number of churches with resident priests is 10,369; missions with churches, 5,448; parochial schools, 5,748, and children attending parochial schools, 1,593,407.

MONSTER MALE CHORUS BEING IS BEING ORGANIZED

Calls have been issued to the male members of all the choirs of this city to meet at the Susquehanna College of Music tomorrow night to organize a Liberty Male Chorus.

This is in line with other town societies all over the country that are awaking to the fact that a singing nation is unbeatable. Everywhere folks are getting together and letting their patriotic fervor vent itself in song. Prof. H. Clark Thayer has been interviewed by the men behind the movement and he has consented to direct the chorus. He has also preferred the use of the auditorium of the College of Music as a place for rehearsals.

Each member of the various choirs has been notified by letter to be on hand and bring with him a copy of the Star Spangled Banner and America. Rehearsals start Tuesday night at 8 and with the amount of musical talent that there is in this city there should be at least 75 voices to start the ball rolling.

TWO MIRACULOUS ESCAPES FROM SHELL FIRE

By Fred S. Ferguson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With The American Army in Lorraine, March 21.—They used to figure that it took a thousand pounds of lead to kill a man. Now it probably takes ten thousand.

A company from a middle-western state was holding a sector recently when a shell burst in the trench. One of the men was blown clear out of the trench. He landed thirty feet back in the open. Everyone thought he was done for. Then they saw him move, and within a few minutes he began to crawl back toward the trench. He was given a hand and once back in the trench the mud was scooped from his ears and nose. His bunkies felt him all over. He didn't have a scratch. Within ten minutes he was back at his place in the line.

In another outfit a shell let loose within three feet of a private who was lying out in No-Man's Land at night. A boy from Cincinnati some distance away saw it and watched to see whether his patrol mate had been hit. He hadn't been touched and got up and walked closer to the German line.

CRAWLS UNDER THE TABLE WHEN AIR RAIDERS COME

By Lowell Holbert
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
London, March 8.—A little woman who teaches school in the East End was visiting us last night when the air raid began. She did an extraordinary thing.

"Please don't say a word about it to me for awhile," she said, and then she took a little book, a school text-book perhaps, from her cloak pocket, and a candle from the mantel and crawled under the table. There, while the guns across the river roared away, she sat and read, heedless of the others in the room. When tea was made presently, as it usually is during informal air-raid parties, her's was passed to her under the table.

Wasn't that funny?
When the Boy Scouts' bugles two hours later announced the end of the danger, she came out. Doubtless thinking an explanation was required she explained as follows:

"The air-raids didn't bother me at all until last summer, but ever since they have affected my nerves. You remember the raid in which a number of school children were killed out in the neighborhood of my school. That day I had taken my pupils to a little public square to play. You know they are all tubercular children and we have to keep them out of doors as much as possible.

"An airplane appeared over head and most of us stood and watched it. That was the time something went wrong with the warning system and we had no reason to know it was a German machine until we began to hear explosions over by the school house and to see shrapnel bursting in the air around the machine.

"The children began to cry and to run to me. Some of them have tubercular hips and it makes me feel sort of sick yet when I remember how they tried to hurry, dragging their little legs along. They piled around me and hid their faces in my skirt and cried. I got them into a nearby house and kept them there until the raid was over.

"Of course, none of them was hurt, but—well, I haven't felt quite the same about air-raids since then."

Not very funny, was it?

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

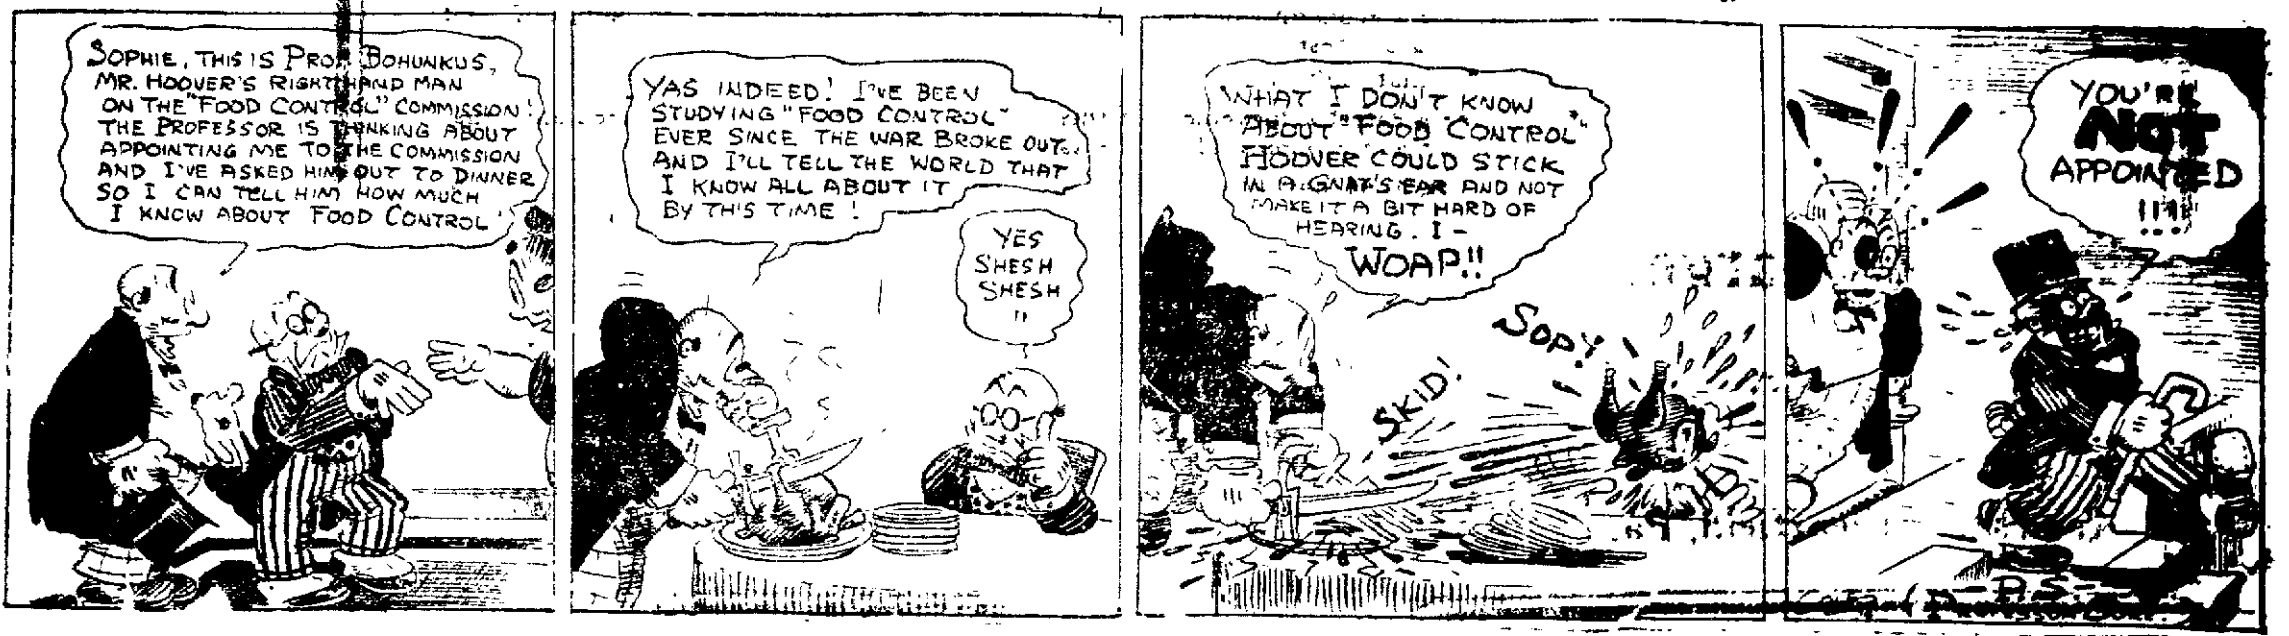

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

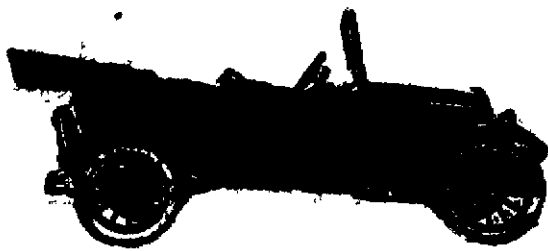

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 30c and 75c per box. All druggists.

Any maker may claim for his product all the qualities there are. That is his privilege. He may even think his claims are justified.

You read the advertisements, so you know that makers, as a rule, are not over modest in that regard.

If you believe them all, they all make super-cars.

In your experience, that theory doesn't hold.

Maxwell is different.

We never claim anything we cannot prove.

As a matter of fact we never have claimed anything for this Maxwell that has not already been proved in public test and under official observation.

Maxwell claims are not therefore claims in the ordinary sense—they are statements of fact—proven facts.

They are, in every case, matters of official record attested under oath.

For example: The famous 22,000-mile Non-Stop run was made with the Maxwell every minute under observation of the A. A. A. officials.

That still remains a world's record—the world's record of reliability.

That particular test proved about all that anyone could ask or desire of a motor car.

Among other things it still stands the world's long distance speed record.

Just consider—44 days and nights without a stop, at an average speed of 25 miles per hour!

And that, not by a $2,000 car, but by a stock model Maxwell listing at $825.

You will recall perhaps that a famous high powered, high priced six in a transcontinental trip made 28 miles average over a period of five days and eleven hours.

Now compare those two feats—one of less than six days, the other of 44 days. You know automobiles—which was the greater test?

Is there any comparison on grounds either of speed or endurance?

Proves you don't need to pay more than $825 to obtain all the qualities you can desire in a motor car—if you select a Maxwell.

For that Maxwell Non-Stop run was made, not on a track but over rough country roads and through city traffic—average of all kinds of going.

And—listen to this.

So certain were we of the condition of the Maxwell at the end of that great feat, we announced that at the stroke of eleven on a certain morning, the car would stop in front of the City Hall, Los Angeles, for the Mayor to break the seal.

Five seconds after he had pulled the switch plug and stopped the motor after the 44 days and nights continuous running, she started again and off on a thousand mile jaunt to visit various Maxwell dealers.

How is that for precision—certainty of action? That incident brought a storm of applause from the assembled thousands.

Hill climbing?—this Maxwell holds practically every record worth mentioning—especially in the West where the real hills are.

The Mount Wilson record—nine and one-half miles, 6,000 feet elevation!—was taken by a stock Maxwell.

Two months ago a 12-cylinder car beat that record by two minutes.

Then—three days later—a stock Maxwell went out and beat that 12-cylinder record by thirty seconds! Pretty close going for such a distance and such a climb—wasn't it?

So Maxwell still holds the Mount Wilson honors.

Ready to defend it against all comers too, at any time—a stock Maxwell against any stock or special chassis.

Economy—also a matter of official record.

Others may claim—Maxwell proves.

Thousands of Maxwell owners throughout the United States on the same day averaged 29.4 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Not dealers or factory experts, mind you, but owners—thousands of them—driving their own Maxwells.

Nor were they new Maxwells—the contest was made by 1915, 16, and 17 models, many of which had seen tens of thousands miles of service—three years' use.

Nor could they choose their own road or weather conditions—all kinds were encountered in the various sections of the country.

Good roads and bad—level country and mountainous regions—heat and cold—sunshine and rain—asphalt and mud.

And the average was 29.4 miles per gallon!

There's economy for you. And under actual, average driving conditions—not laboratory test.

But that isn't all.

The greatest achievement of this Maxwell was in its showing of speed and reliability and economy all in the same run.

In that 44 days-and-nights Non-Stop run, though no thought was given to either speed or economy, it still remains a fact of official record that the Maxwell averaged 22 miles per gallon and 25 miles per hour.

Now you know that speed costs—and that economy tests are usually made at slow-speed—closed-throttle, thin-mixture conditions.

You know too that you can obtain economy of fuel by building and adjusting for that one condition.

Speed you can get by building for speed. Any engineer can do that.

But to obtain that combination of speed and economy with the wonderful reliability shown in that 44-days Non-Stop run—the car must be a Maxwell.

IRREPRESSIBLE AMERICAN YOUTH

Fighting, like flying, seems especially adapted to youth. A boy of seventeen, after his first battle and killing, could talk only of "souvenirs" collected, a belt labeled "Gott mit Uns," new trench daggers, etc. "Believe me, I am anxious for the next night," said he, anxious undoubtedly for more souvenirs. Happy, unconscious youth.

Such remarks by young American soldiers may not come up to your ideal of lofty, patriotic purpose, but, undoubtedly authentic, they will interest German statesmen wondering how big a fine they can collect from the United States "after victory."

One young soldier told how he was at first connected with a machine gun, but found that he could do better with hand grenades. "After the barrage I seen two Germans cutting the wire with long snippers. I spun a couple o' grenades at 'em, and blew 'em both to hell. Me for hand grenades."

The serious religious tone is lacking here, but this sort of personality multiplied by five millions and well armed will probably put down the German estimate of a United States indemnity.—Arthur Brisbane.

MINER KILLED AT HOUTZDALE

Pat Mulloy, a well known resident of Parsonville, near Houtzdale, was killed by a fall of rock in the old Mo-hannon mine of the Cartwright Coal company, located near Houtzdale.

Mr. Mulloy was engaged in the removal of the cap or top of a coal and the treacherous roof falling on him and engulfed him. His fellow miners quickly dug him from the debris but his injuries were such that he lived less than ten minutes from the time he was removed from the mine. He was about 55 years of age and leaves a widow and family of adult children.

GENERAL PUBLIC OF ARGENTINE FAVORS ALLIES

President Of Republic In His
Attitude Does Not Represent
Feelings Of The People

FINANCIAL TIES BINDING

(By United Press)

Buenos Aires, Feb. 17.—There is a marked divergence between Argentine
public opinion and the opinion
held by the government, as characterized by the President of the Republic,
on the matter of the European war.
That the government is distinct from Congress, is shown by the fact that
manifest by an overwhelming majority.
Moreover, the general sympathy
of the Argentine people for the Allied
cause is well known; public meetings,
the press, the youth of the Republic,
all have made plain both in town and
country that this Republic's ideals are
one with those of the allies, and that
the pretoria organizations and the absolutism which the Central Empires
seek to extend throughout the world
runs counter to all free and democratic institutions, and especially are opposed to the aspirations of the Republics of the new world.

Argentina, like many other countries, was close linked with Germany
on the economic side, whilst in military matters and above all in questions of armament she was practically at her beck and call. Routine
methods, carelessness, out-of-date systems, absorbing internal problems,
neglect of foreign markets, gradually eliminated the old clients in England, France, Belgium, Italy, and even Spain, their place being taken by cheap German goods sold on long
terms of payment, flashy, fraudulent,
and a mere copy of the better stuffs
sold by other nations. Indeed, in certain lines, such as drugs, dye stuffs,
and toys, Germany practically held
the field.

In military matters, too, Molke
was the high priest and Bismark the
brain of this governing and all-conquering force, and Argentina was a
willing customer of the Teuton store,
past master as it was in eliminating
all rival influences and competition
when contracts for armaments were
under consideration and always using
the most efficacious method for gaining its ends, even when those methods were of an immoral nature.

Came the world war and today in this world crisis the policy of the chancellery is either an enigma or a string of incoherencies. The reply to the Teutonic notifications of a submarine war without restrictions was feeble and unfortunate. Then in replying to the vibrant and finely worded communication of the United States advising a state of war, the Argentine government admitted that the American attitude "was right,"
an admission that ought to have led to the rupture of relations with a nation that had forced this "right" and
defensive war on the United States.
Next came the vacillation over official
acknowledgment of the American
seamen; then there was the visit of
the Glasgow and the acting Minister

the Caldwell, Pyramma and other mines in the vicinity. The patriotic utterances of the speakers were most enthusiastically received and following the speechmaking the Bond solicitors did a rushing business.

When the last man had been rounded up it was found that the Caldwell
mine employees subscribed for over $4000 worth of bonds and the men
promised the solicitors that it would be in the 100 per cent. list before the drive was over.

We did not get a report from the
other mines.

The delay and weak action of this government in the fact of the torpe-caused a great deal of criticism on the part of the public and the newspapers

Store Editorials

Ours Is A "One Price" Store

"Can't you sell this for less money?" asked
a new customer about to make a purchase.

We need not tell you what our answer
was; it was merely a matter of explaining
customer could obtain a less price than any other.

And this is only right. When a woman goes into a store, she should not feel that she must be on her guard and that she never can tell when she is really getting a good or poor
value.

Isn't it best when you can step into a store
knowing that EVERY value is good—and that
no item has been overmarked?

Let us say now that the new customer who
asked the above question was thoroughly convinced of the folly of purchasing at a "no-
price" or a "two-price" store and told us our little talk had certainly set her thinking.

TIN HAT SOUNDS JUST LIKE
CASH REGISTER

By Fred S. Ferguson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The American Army In Lorraine, March 21.—"That was one sale
the Boche rang up without getting
the money" said a boy from Dayton
as he took off his tin hat and pointed to a shiny spot on the crown. He went over the top with the men of the Ohio regiment when they made their raid on March 9. While coming back the German artillery opened up with a barrage. There was a burst of shrapnel near the Dayton boy. His life was saved by his tin hat. A piece of the shell struck the hat and bounced off.

"You ought to have heard it ring,"
the Dayton soldier went on. "It
sounded like all the cash registers in
the shops at home were being rung
up. But the Boche missed his sale."
